T+1 Settlement Cycle: Changes for Depositary Receipts

Beginning May 28, 2024, the U.S. settlement cycle for securities transactions will be shortened from T+2 to T+1. This change applies to transactions involving Depositary Receipts. We would be pleased to discuss how this change will impact your Depositary Receipt (DR) program.

Companies with DR programs should be aware of the forthcoming change to the U.S. settlement cycle for securities transactions.

In 2023, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission adopted an amendment to shorten the standard settlement cycle for most broker-dealer securities transactions. Currently, the standard settlement cycle for these transactions is two trading days, known as T+2. The amended rule will shorten the settlement cycle to one trading day, or T+1. This is designed to enhance efficiency, reduce risk and ensure a coordinated transition to a shortened standard settlement cycle. Broker-dealers will be required to comply with the amended rule as of May 28, 2024.

The shortened settlement cycle may impact the way you trade and settle DRs. It may also affect entitlement dates relating to certain corporate events.

Considerations for Corporate Events

- 1. Take the compressed settlement timeline into consideration when setting and announcing key dates for certain corporate events such as dividend distributions and tender or exchange offers.
- 2. Review your procedures and consider whether any updates are needed to accommodate the reduced settlement timeline.

Considerations for Securities Sales

Take the following steps for sales of securities that require the depositary to issue DRs (including registered direct offers, (RDOs), at-the-market issuances (ATMs), private placements and other issuer-driven issuances or conversions).

1. Review and update your offering documents and agreements to reflect the new settlement timeline. Ensure all regulatory and legal compliance requirements will be met under the T+1 framework.

- 2. Assess your internal and external operational processes for handling offerings, from announcement to settlement. Do they accommodate the accelerated schedule? You may need to engage with legal advisors and underwriters on this point.
- 3. Notify your BNY Mellon relationship manager(s) of any changes. Please contact them at least two business days prior to the date of issuance of any DRs. This should provide all parties sufficient time to facilitate the issuance.

For those that include applicable DR record dates in your periodic earnings releases, please ensure you consider the amended rule during your preparations. Should you have any questions or concerns about the new U.S. securities settlement cycle, please do not hesitate to contact your BNY Mellon relationship manager.
